University of Omaha, Omaha, Nebr., February 13, 1951

No. 31

Second semester's registration drops

Day school enrollment totals 1400;
1300 students sign for night classes

Day school enrollment in the University of Omaha has suffered a 20 percent drop. This percentage is the comparison between enrollment at the beginning of last semester compared to recent figures just released by the Registrar's office.

The drop in student registration includes the 41 male students who left for the service previous to or during spring vacation.

Totals in registration this semester are 1400 enrolled in day school. An estimated 400 students have enrolled in the technical institute.

Fifty-five new and transfer students are included in day registration charts. These figures have been released by Registrar Miss Alice Smith.

Two thirds of the students who registered for second semester classes are men. This contrasts with a postwar estimate of 75 percent male enrollment.

The total present enrollment is approximately 76 percent of the number attending school last year at this time.

Miss Smith added that enrollment is still open for evening sessions.

Step names rest of student committees, Vocations Day heads

The remainder of the semester for the third annual Vocations Day, February 28, have been announced by Gene Step, student chairman.

"Would You Like to Sell?" will be the subject of the sales seminar led by W. E. Graham; Phillips Petroleum Co.

The secretarial seminar will have Mrs. Dixie Gooldy, Employment Supervisor of Northwestern Bell Telephone Company as interpreter. The subject of the seminar will be "So You Want To Be a Secretary".

Leslie Berry, owner of Berry's Clothing Store, will speak on "Running Your Own Business" in the general business seminar.

Cookery

Home Economics—experimental cookery seminar will feature Miss Joan J. Mactier will speak on "The Three T's—Try, Test, and Taste."

Three radio men will interpret television and radio in that seminar. Ray Clark, news manager of W.O.W.; Sandy Jackson, staff announcer of K.O.W.H. and K.O.A.D.; and Lyle DeMoss, program director and production manager of W.O.W. will discuss "Behind the Mike and T.V. Camera".

"Medicine, Forever a Frontier" will be the subject of Dr. Harley E. Anderson's speech in the premed seminar. The accounting seminar, led by John Loucks, C.P.A. of John M. Gilchrist Company, will tell "What the Figures Mean".

Insurance, home ec

Same Starrett, Guarantee Mutual Life Ins. Co. will lead the insurance seminar. "Pupils, Poise, and Pedagogy" will be the subject of the home economics teaching seminar. Miss Windheim, instructor at Technical High School will lead the discussion.

The theater will be the subject of Kendrick Wilson's speech. His address, "Behind the Proscenium Arch", will be given in the theater seminar.

Louis Schonlau, Omaha Grain Exchange, will interpret "Application of College Chemistry to the Industrial Field" in the chemistry seminar.

"Promising Careers in Civil and Architectural Engineering" will be discussed by John D. Griffiths in the architectural and civil engineering seminar.

Three more students have been added to the student committee. Tom Townsend is in charge of publicity, and Ben Tobias is in charge of attendance. Ralph Selby will work with speech department in helping the seminar leaders prepare their speeches.

More chairmen

There will be no mass industrial exhibits in the Fieldhouse as there were last year. Local firms who would ordinarily exhibit their products are not sure they will be manufacturing their regular line by Vocations Day.

The present world emergency may change their industry at any time.

Air ROTC curriculum would take four years

An Air ROTC unit, if installed at OU, would consist of a four year curriculum, split into two years of basic training and two years in advanced.

In order to be eligible for the program, a student must have two years of college yet to be completed. Students credited with three years of high school ROTC may enter the senior division (college) as second year basic students.

Veterans having one year of service may also enter as second year basic students.

The entire program would consist of regular armed forces training. In basic, the student would learn drill, manual of arms, navigation, meteorology, and theory of flight, in regular lecture and laboratory sessions.

According to this arrangement, the student would receive complete training as a future officer, while still pursuing his college career.

Students in basic and advanced have no worries about the draft. Schools with ROTC units receive a certain number of exemptions applicable to basic students. So far no basic ROTC students of Creighton University have been drafted. The Army has always provided adequate exemptions.

A basic student, who also is a member of a reserve unit which is called out, must leave with the reservists. This, however, is not true of the advanced student. He is exempted from any service whether through draft or reserve unit.

March 2 is date for annual Tomahawk Beauty Contest Morning Coffee Hour Wednesday

March 2 is the date set for the annual Tomahawk Beauty Contest. This has been announced by Co-Chairmen Jean Duncan and Peggy Smith.

The contest is set for 2 to 5 p. m. in the auditorium. All university students may attend.

Tomahawk Editor Jean McDonald added that all sororities on campus may enter as many as six candidates in the competition. Unaffiliated women may apply in Tomahawk Editor Jean McDonald has announced that all organizational copy must be turned in by Friday. No copy will be accepted after this date.

Seniors are reminded that their activity information cards are due now. All seniors wishing to have their activities published in The Tomahawk must fill out an information card. Cards may be picked up in room 306A.

A call has also been issued for informal snapshots of university students. Pictures of last year's Maie Day celebration are especially needed.

room 306A on or before Feb. 23.

John Marshall has been named master of ceremonies for the contest. Continuity music will be supplied by Irv Jones at the piano.

A quartet, also under the direction of Jones, and a violin solo by Bill Fitzsimmons will be added features of the event.

Contestants will be judged on their personality, poise and beauty. The judges, not connected with the university, will not be disclosed until contest time. They will judge all entrants on a point system. Names of contestants will be announced at a later date by Miss McDonald and The Gateway.

SAE Coffee Hour is set for Tuesday eve

All night school students are invited to the first Coffee Hour sponsored by the Adult Education student council. The session is sponsored by the Adult Education student council. The session is scheduled for next Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. in room 100.

The purpose of this Coffee Hour is to create more interest in the night student council. Since the council was formed, there has been a lack of interest shown by night students.

"This is due to the many additional activities and jobs that the night students take part in," commented E. M. Hosman. Mr. Hosman is head of the School of Adult Education.

Journalism students total 300 at clinic

Three hundred high school journalism students attended the second annual journalism conference at OU Friday afternoon and evening.

Opening with a tour of the World Herald, the young journalists then met in the OU Auditorium to hear Dr. Milo Bail, OU president, welcome them.

Carl Towley, assistant director of the National Scholastic Press Association spoke to the students on "Your Newspaper and Yearbook: Bridges between the School and the Public". Henry Mauck, editor of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, spoke on "What Journalism Means to Me".

After the speeches, high school advisers were moderators at group panels. Glenna Perkins, editor of the Gateway, presented 45 awards to winning students in the contests at the banquet.

Trend in engineering jobs changes; bright outlook predicted for 1955

Prospects for future engineers look very bright. By 1955 there will be a shortage of all kinds of engineers, said James H. Brown of the Engineering Department, citing a survey made for industry by the Wylie Publishing Company.

This trend is contrary to last year's pessimistic predictions. On June 12, 1950, Life Magazine stated that the United States' third largest profession has only 18,000 jobs open for an estimated 50,000 graduates in 1950. "Prospects are better," advised the magazine, "but many engineers will find it wise to switch to sales or other non-technical jobs."

Many prospective students were discouraged by these reports and consequently, stated Brown, this year's enrollment has fallen off somewhat. Omaha University has facilities for quite a few more engineering students.

Brown added that practically every engineering graduate in this school in the last two years has been placed. Aeronautical, chemical, electrical, mechanical and manufacturing fields are especially fruitful, he continued.

The main reason, of course, why more engineers will be needed is the international crisis. On August 8, 1950 Secretary of Labor placed all branches of engineering on the list of critical occupations. But the

The first morning Coffee Hour of the year will be held tomorrow from 10 to 11 a. m. in the east cafeteria.

Speaker at the session will be Louis A. Warren, LITT. D. Mr. Warren is one of the foremost authorities in the country of Abraham Lincoln. He is director of the Lincoln National Life Foundation. The foundation contains more information on the past president than any other library in the U. S.

Panel members for the session will be Joan Bugbee, Ed Klima and Leonard Leftitz.

June Williams, Coffee Hour chairman, commented that this should be one of the most interesting programs scheduled for the year. She added that the Coffee Hour was scheduled for the morning so that more students would have a chance to hear Mr. Warren speak.

Last chance for directories

Student directories are available today in the first floor ticket office for all new and transfer students. This is also the last chance for students who did not pick them up when they were distributed last fall, may also get their directories today.

The ticket office opened this morning at eight, and will remain open until 3 p. m. Students may receive their directories upon presentation of their activity cards.

Publications business manager, Charles Huffman, urges that all students wishing directories check them out today. "This will be the last time student directories will be handed out, so it is very important that they be picked up today," said Huffman.

armed services have called up many reservist engineers. Consequently, industry finds that men with a few years' experience are practically unattainable at present.

TV, Tunes—

University band on WOW-TV Thursday

Omaha University's band, under the direction of Dr. Robert W. Fiester, will be featured on WOW-TV Thursday at 5:15 p. m.

The student production staff for the program has been announced by Bruce H. Linton, acting chairman of the Speech, Debate, and Dramatic Department, and director of radio at the university. Dick Carlson will be student producer for the show, while Jim McPherson will handle continuity, and John Marshall will engineer the production. Ralph Carey is scheduled to take over announcing duties.

A concert band selection written by Dr. Fiester, "Esprit de Corp," will open the 5:15 program.

A trumpet trio, composed of Bill Miller, Paul Thompson, and Lloyd Jacobson will play "Three Trumpeters." The final number will be a medley of five Latin rhythms, "Rhythms of Rio."

OU's 'jellying place' offers 'potentialities'

By Jim Bourne

There hasn't been so much excitement around the old place in a long time. First the unexpected meeting Wednesday morning, then the ballot followed by general vote of confidence and what do we have? Air ROTC.

Still, I can't get too enthusiastic at the idea of a military campus. I keep remembering high school ROTC. A great institution, high school ROTC; they teach you as much in four years as the army can in two weeks.

But then, I'm probably biased against the juvenile army; I would have flunked my one semester of it if it hadn't been for a kind streak in the instructor. On the last day of the term we had a heart-to-heart talk.

"Clark," he said, "if you can show me one thing you've done right, I'll pass you."

I beamed and ran off to get my rifle which I had just polished with Brillo.

"What's the cork in the end for?"

I explained that the barrel was full of grease, he didn't see it dribbling over everything, did he? I took gym next semester.

College ROTC will be a lot more worthwhile, but it has its problems. Will the uniform pants look all right with a sports coat? Do faculty members have to salute student officers? We'll see.

Fashion note: Vincent Price, the movie actor, has invented a one-piece tuxedo. Isn't that ducky? He said he did it to make his fellow man more comfortable. The only thing we need now to be really relaxed is a two-piece rain coat. Good old Vince will probably bring one out.

A note on the downstairs' bulletin board reads: "Lost, a plastic bag containing a half-finished child's sweater..." The parents should be ashamed. Sounds like lazy craftsmanship to me.

It seems I'm a plagiarist. Another writer, John O'Hara, has a book out called "Hellbox." The blurb on the book's cover says it has "all the passions, moral and immoral, etched in acid by one of the great virile authors of our time." No competition here, we're fresh out of acid.

Every college has its "jellying place." At the state U's it's the Student Union; at other colleges, it's the "rec" center; but here on the wooded campus of OU, it's the Student Center, or less formally, the snack shack.

For freshmen there are many potentialities here. You can meet some of the upper classmen, maybe even a co-ed (girl).

Upon entering this of student activity, you are appalled at the crowd, dense smoke, and the absence of the strong odor of "brew." Here nothing stronger than coffee is served. But what coffee! The shack's coffee does for you what Hadacol could only hope to do.

Here you may talk, drink cokes and coffee, eat, play checkers, read the other Omaha paper, and play the juke-box. It's just the place for an intellectual discussion.

Within these walls everything has been discussed: girls, last night's date, draft, chem, girls, BMOC's girls, and men.

The word "shack" is slightly misleading. The walls are painted a weird pink, the ceiling a faded yellow, and the entire building has a well unkept appearance. There is absolutely no truth in the rumor that it was once a garage. The two overhead doors at the south end don't mean a thing.

"Keep it Clean" signs are plastered on every wall. These signs refer to the tables, not your conversation. But as mature college students you are expected to refrain from telling "Pat and Mike" jokes. (Didja hear the one about... naw.)

Someday OU will have a Student Union, till then it's the shack. See you there.

Yesterday and tomorrow . . .

Today, as usual, we find ourselves living between a "yesterday" and a "tomorrow." Only this particular combination of yesterday and tomorrow has special significance.

For today we stand between Lincoln's birthday and Saint Valentine's Day. These dates, we think, symbolize two of the finest aspects of life in America.

In the tradition represented by Abraham Lincoln, we discover many of the ideals which have made America strong—ideals of democracy, service to God and country, personal integrity, self-sufficiency guided by inspiration from others. We discover a great soul which lived, and asked each of us to live, a "dedicated" life.

And then we turn to the gaiety and joyfulness of Saint Valentine's Day. We discover the glorious tradition of a box of candy and a heart-shaped greeting card—a tradition enjoyed by children, cherished by young couples, never completely forgotten by any of us.

These two traditions seem to strengthen each other. They bring together service and personal happiness, duty and love. Together, they make each life more complete. That is, perhaps, the importance of today—that through it, we can see more of the significance of yesterday and tomorrow.

Indian cagers seek win over Wesleyan

Forfeits again assist foes in Morningside free shot nudges Indians 73-72

OU will try to make it two in a row against Nebraska Wesleyan when they square off against the Plainsmen tomorrow night on the University of Nebraska maples.

In the first encounter this season, the Indians spanked Wesleyan, 58-153 on the Omaha court.

If OU is to repeat over the Plainsmen, they will have to stop Bob Gaston, a 6-3 forward from Minden, Nebraska. Gaston hit for 21 counters in the first contest.

Gaston has been the high scorer for Nebraska Wesleyan in every game this season.

Up until last Friday, the Plainsmen were working on a four game winning streak.

Coach Irv Peterson's Plainsmen put a respectable 16-9 record in the books last year, and beat Omaha twice while doing it.

"We're out to do the same thing to them this year," said OU coach, Don Pflasterer.

K. Christie moves up

The Yellow and Brown have have a rapidly improving center in Dick Grazcyk, a 6-4 rookie from Chicago, Illinois. Grazcyk has been hitting the hoop consistently.

Omaha is bolstered with the addition of Keith Christie, who had been playing with the Papooses until the Doane game last week. Christie is a guard.

He is "coming along fine with the varsity," according to Papoose coach, Ernie Flecky.

Also showing flashes of brilliancy against Doane was Larry Micheels, not to mention Don Claussen and Lee Nelson.

Coach Peterson has been very successful in his coaching career at Nebraska Wesleyan. He has a 30-16 record in his two years at the school.

OU leads series

The series between Omaha University and Nebraska Wesleyan dates back to 1913, when the Plainsmen took the initial game, 27-22.

Tomorrow night's contest will be the thirtieth meeting between the two schools. The Indians own a 17-12 edge in the series so far.

The game was originally scheduled for tonight, but last week was changed to Wednesday.

Depending upon last night's outcome with the Morningside Maroons, the Indians will either be trying to get over the .500 mark for the season, or else they will be trying to get into a position where they can climb over the hurdle in their next encounter.

Alpha Xi B kegglers gain second place tie

Alpha Xi B climbed into a second place tie in the women's intramural bowling league Feb. 5 by beating Alpha Xi Delta, 2-1.

Chi Omega retained its hold on first place by downing the Chi O Owls two out of three. Chi O now has a three game edge on the second place clubs.

In other games, NISA downed Gamma Mu, 2-1, Sigma Kappa defeated Independents in two of three and Sigma smacked Zeta Tau Alpha, 2-1.

High individual game for the week was registered by Nancy Hileman, who bowled over 178 pins. Runner-up for high game honors was Mary Jane Weeks of Sigma Kappa, who had a 169 game.

Tops in the high individual series went to Lenta Anderson, with a total of 468 for three games.

Tennis hopefuls see coach

All men interested in trying out for tennis are asked to report to John Pritchard, tennis coach, in room 371A as soon as possible.

OUWI begins play in cage sport tourney

Zeta Tau Alpha and Alpha Xi Delta will play the first game in the women's intramural basketball league this afternoon in the women's PE Hut, at 3:30.

Tomorrow afternoon's game will pit the Independents against the Sigma Kappa's. Thursday at the same time of day, Chi Omega will face the unaffiliated girls.

The tournament is scheduled to be a round robin, with all games to be played on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons.

All girls interested in going to Lincoln on Feb. 24 for the play with the Nebraska Wesleyan girls is reminded to contact Helen Tihart, Beverly Copeland or Miss Vera Deurschner, women's physical education instructor.

The play day will take place on the Wesleyan campus, with the women from the two schools participating in several sports, including basketball, table tennis and volleyball.

Each girl who signs up for the trip to Lincoln is also asked to check if she will be able to drive down and carry some of the other girls.

Men's murals—

APO's down Otoes in only cage contest on intramural schedule

APO won their second game in six starts over the Otoes last Thursday in the 'mural basketball league. The score was 17-14.

This was the only game played Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Schedule (Feb. 13-16)

Feb. 13: ISA vs. Delta Sigma Lambda.
Theta Chi vs. Sigma Lambda Beta.
Blackhawks vs. Pawnees.
14: Alpha Sigma Lambda vs. Phi Epsilon Pi.
15: Delta Sigma Pi vs. Otoes.
16: Sigma Lambda Beta vs. Theta Phi Delta.
Alpha Sigma Lambda vs. Otoes.
Alpha Sigma Lambda "B" vs. Theta Chi "B".

Individual Scoring

Men's volleyball league will start Feb. 19. Team managers must enter their teams by Feb. 14.

If possible it will be round-robin participation, but may be reduced to elimination play, depending upon the number of teams entered.

Sigma Lambda Beta pulled the surprise of the week in the 'mural bowling league at the 40 Bowl, last Obtaining half of their points on forfeits, the National Champion Iowa Teachers wrestlers downed Omaha U, 30-7, Saturday night in the Fieldhouse.

The Tutors won the 123 pound, 157 pound and 167 pound matches because OU offered no opponents. In the other five matches, OU gained one decision and one draw.

Heavyweight Howard Byram won his tussle with Lee. Wachenheim when the latter was injured at 6:33 of their match. Charlie Mancuso gained the only other Indian points when he drew with Ed Smith, 2-2.

Frankie Mancuso came within 15 seconds of adding some more points to the OU total. He was doing well when Clyde Bean of the Teachers pinned him at 8:55. Frankie was wrestling at the 137 pound weight instead of his usual 147 pounds.

This weight switch was necessary because the Indians could not use any of their freshmen grapplers. Bob Grau, who is undefeated in college matches, and Lynn Faris are rookies who might have been able to add needed points.

Paul Bashus and Lan Schluter were the other two Indians to take to the mats. Bashus was decided by Martin Lundball of the visitors by 5-1 while Schluter was pinned by Gene Lybert at 4:30.

This was the last home wrestling appearance of the season for OU, who has two remaining matches. Feb. 16 the Indians will journey to Lawrence, Kans., to meet the Kansas State grapplers. Feb. 23 they will move to Lincoln to wrestle the Nebraska University crew.

As in the match with the Tutors, the Indians will have to leave their freshmen at home. This could mean two more losses unless Coach Allie Morrison can come up with a few surprise winners.

Thursday.

Sig Lambs, known as the "forfeits," won two out of three games from the Theta Phi Delta club. The losses dropped the Theta's from second to third place.

Phi Epsilon Pi jumped from second to a first place tie with Alpha Sigma Lambda by winning three games from the Alpha Sigs. Both clubs have a 26-13 record.

Theta Chi won three games from the Sioux by forfeit.

Pawnees won two out of three games from ISA.

Ray Abeita of the "surprise winning" Sig Lamb club captured the individual high game score with a 213 mark. Jack Noodell of Phi Epsilon Pi bowled a 202 game to share "200" with Abeita.

Sig Lambs copped the high game with a 662 score. Theta's were second and third with 642 and 609.

Bob Anderson of Theta's copped the individual high series title with a 518 mark. Hopie Bronson of ISA was second with 474.

High team series honors were captured by Theta's with a mark of 1813. Sig Lambs were second with 1721.

Standings (Feb. 9)

Alpha Sigma Lambda	26	13
Phi Epsilon Pi	26	13
Theta Phi Delta	24	15

OU cagers can defeat five of last eight foes

By Burt McMillan

Gateway Sports Editor

After trying to get Grantland Rice, Norman Sper and even Floyd Olds to do it, I finally had to do my own forecasting.

And here it is: Omaha U's cagers will treble last year's output of four wins. Yes, I know that to do it they have to win five of their last eight games, with half the games away from home.

Up to the Morningside game last Saturday night, the Indian team had won six and lost eight in college competition. They also owned a win-over the alumni club.

The games left of the schedule give OU a good chance for a .500 season record. They have already beaten three of the last eight foes. Among these teams is the Nebraska Wesleyan squad which Omaha plays tomorrow night.

The Indians won Dec. 19 on the Fieldhouse floor. Of course, the game will be played on the unfamiliar Nebraska U Coliseum court. But OU now has smooth Don Clausen, a more consistent Bob Rose and a team with more balance and hustle than in December.

Feb. 19 OU faces Sioux Falls College again. Since the Indians massacred the green Sioux Falls on their court, Omaha fans can safely hope for a repeat win here.

Not all rosy

Doane should also fall to the Indians on the strength of the OU victory last week. But now the picture darkens a little.

Wayne U of Detroit probably will down the Omaha aggregation again. However, don't discount the factors in OU's favor in the return engagement. The game will be played in Omaha, the Indians will be rested and not just relieved of the nervous tension caused by seven hour train delays.

Simpson has a good chance to down the Indians in the return match. OU lost to Simpson here at home, and will drop another game to the Kansas crew unless Clausen, Rose, Nelson, Arenas, Fitch and company can pull it out of the fire.

12-11 record

Thus I will go out on a limb and predict that OU's final record will be 12 wins against 11 losses counting the alumni game, when they take up the basketball floor in the Fieldhouse.

The Indian wrestlers, I'm afraid, won't fair quite so well. But the cause of this dim view is not lack of talent.

Coach Allie Morrison is faced with not being able to use his freshman grapplers in the last three matches.

Taste and Compare!

Omaha University put together its best basketball game of the season against Morningside Saturday night only to be beaten by a free throw after the final horn had sounded.

The converted charity toss was just enough for the Maroons to cop a 73-72 thriller on the Morningside maples.

The man with the ice water in his veins was Red Norris.

With the score tied 72-72 and seconds remaining, Norris fielded a Wiedenfeld rebound and was fouled as the game ended.

After much debate between officials, players, and coaches, Norris was awarded the shot that won the game.

Indians catch fire

The contest started out like a Morningside romp with the Maroons taking early 4-0 and 6-2 leads. But the Indians, not to be denied, caught fire and passed the Maroons like they were standing still.

Omaha led 24-16 after 10 minutes, and it was then that the Maroons were on top, 57-53.

They were approximately four minutes to play when the Indians, behind 70-67, started their late surge.

Gift tosses help

Bob Stedman cashed in three gift tosses within a minute to knot the count at 70-70.

A half-minute later, Don Clausen put the Indians in the lead, 71-70, with a free throw.

Claussen, however, again came through to tie up the game moments later on another charity throw, after Morningside's Doug Gresham potted a long fielder.

Bob Rose was literally terrific for Omaha. He garnered five buckets and hit a phenomenal 10 for 11 free throws. Rose managed to escape without committing a misdeed in the first half, but within seven minutes of the second canto, he had fouled out.

Larry Micheels also turned in a mellow performance for the Indians. He pumped in fifteen points for the cause on seven fielders and a free throw. Micheels also went out via the foul route.

OU plays well

All in all, the whole Omaha crew played heads up ball throughout the entire contest.

The Maroon's Dick Wiedenfeld was in all respects the difference between victory and defeat. The 6-6 center not only meshed a sensational 22 points but also cleared both boards in style.

Wiedenfeld was followed in the scoring column by Doug Gresham who countered 14 markers.

Gateway notice—

The society section will start a new column next week.

The column will announce the engagements of Omaha University students. If you have not had your engagement announced in the World-Herald, we would appreciate it if you would give your name to one of the society editors.

The society editor would like to have all organizations turn in information on their meetings; so they may receive the proper publicity.

Happy birthday—

APO makes window display for occasion

In honor of National Boy Scout Week, Alpha Phi Omega celebrated their 41st birthday and their own 25th year with a window display.

The display was shown last week in one of the second floor show cases. It explained the four aims of the fraternity. They are service to the faculty and students, service to the community, service to the nation, and service to brothers.

One of the requirements to join the national service fraternity is that the applicant must have been previously affiliated with the Boy Scouts.

Alpha Xi Delta's to initiate pledges soon

Alpha Xi Delta announced that they will initiate their pledges Feb. 25.

The initiating ceremonies will take place at the Omaha Women's Club. It will start at 1 p.m. and last until 5 p.m. Mrs. Agnes O'Dwyer, first national vice president, will be here for the activation. Officers of the sorority will do the initiating.

A reception will be held following the ceremonies for the parents of the initiated girls.

Dr. Grace speaks to Grad Club at Omaha

"Because values among nations differ, and will continue to differ, peace is not so much a goal as a method of social behavior with our associates," explained Dr. Henry A. Grace.

Dr. Grace addressed the Graduate Club of Omaha University last Wednesday night.

He is a professor of social psychology at the University of Illinois. Dr. Grace told the grad club why international relations offers a wide field for graduate research in social science. "International relations are an advanced form of inter-personal relations," he said, "and more than knowledge about a nation is necessary to change an attitude of hostility."

He went on to say that social scientists might solve complex problems by studying human interna-
